

Adelaide Primary Health Network

MasterCare+ and Adelaide PHN work together to boost the region's My Health Record reporting

Together MasterCare+ and Adelaide PHN are enabling Allied Health professionals around South Australia to contribute to My Health Record's national health data collection infrastructure, while experiencing the efficiency benefits of the MasterCare+ patient administration platform.

APHN funded the six-month, state-wide sponsorship of MasterCare+, for Allied Health Providers who currently use paper records or disparate electronic systems so they can enjoy the security, efficiency and patient engagement benefits of standardised digital communications and record-keeping.

By integrating their practice systems into the MasterCare+ platform, osteopaths, physiotherapists, optometrists and other Allied Health practitioners will be able to collect and upload information directly into My Health Record as well as receive electronic referrals, bill electronically and digitise case notes.

The Adelaide region has seen high engagement of health care services connecting to MyHR. With 296 GPs and 42 Allied health providers connect to MyHR within the metropolitan area. 15 private hospitals, 10 public hospitals, 20 specialists' rooms, and 262 pharmacies have also connected.

The Adelaide region has seen high engagement of health care services connecting to MyHR. With 296 GPs and 42 Allied health providers connect to MyHR within the metropolitan area. 15 private hospitals, 10 public hospitals, 20 specialists' rooms, and 262 pharmacies have also connected.

Over the past year, Adelaide PHN have worked with health care providers and community members to raise awareness and understanding of MyHR.

According to MasterCare Product Manager, Kye Cherian, the APHN sponsorship will benefit both the richness of My Health Record's South Australian data and Allied Health Providers' administrative efficiency.

"Not only will migrating to this industry-leading platform strengthen the robustness of My Health Record data, it will enable practitioners and their patients to benefit from the innovative features of MasterCare+..."

Kye Cherian
MasterCare

"APHN is providing leadership and vision by investing in MasterCare+ as the pathway for South Australia's Allied Health professionals to integrate their practice records with the national My Health Care infrastructure, which has not previously been possible," he said.

"Not only will migrating to this industry-leading platform strengthen the robustness of My Health Record data, it will enable practitioners and their patients to benefit from the innovative features of MasterCare+, such as mobile optimisation, secure messaging between providers and digitised inbound referrals."

Both MasterCare+ and the Adelaide PHN will continue to work with health care providers and services in the metropolitan region to register, understand and participate in the MyHR system.

